The steamboat is a distinctly American invention, the product of that uniquely American spirit of resolve and determination. In the days of Mark Twain, steamboats were a regular feature serving the transportation needs of an expanding country. Steamboating became a gracious, romantic way to travel through a growing nation. Paddlewheelers strove to outdo each other with their elaborate wedding cake designs, a show of Victorian excess known as “steamboat Gothic.” Passengers could relax on their wide decks as the ever-changing vista of the American riverside glided serenely by. And, as one historian noted, “the thing ran against the current, what could be more American than that?”

At the turn of the last century, Captain Gordon Greene led a steamboat company known as Greene Line Steamers. His wife, Captain Mary Becker Greene, fondly known on the river as Ma Greene, and later their sons Chris and Tom, respectively, followed him as the head of this visionary steamboat company. In the 1940s, Tom Greene bought the Delta Queen following its service for the U.S. Navy and undertook the audacious challenge of moving her from the San Francisco Bay area, by way of the Panama Canal, to Cincinnati. No other river craft had traversed that famous ditch and the general consensus on the river was that maybe Captain Tom had spent a bit too much time in the river’s sun, until the adventure proved a success plying “Mark Twain’s mile-wide tide.”

In the mid 1990s, a team, emboldened by this earlier success, envisioned a plan to build a grand, glistening white steamboat every bit as authentic as the boats of the glory days, but with all the modern amenities afforded by today’s technology. A true steamboat – not a tawdry, half-hearted caricature, but a real steamboat – a gracious queen of the river like the legendary J. M. White, or the renowned Great Republic, all frilly with ornamentation and an authentic Victorian personality.

The dream became a reality in 1995 when over 500 American workers built and delivered the grand American Queen, the largest and most opulent steamboat ever built. She is virtually a time machine that takes people back to the early 1900s and relives the full grandeur of Mark Twain’s Mississippi River. Unfortunately, a previous owner ran into financial difficulty and had to cease operations. After a few years of sitting idle, our group acquired the beautiful treasure in 2011. Upon completion of extensive refurbishment and a celebrated rechristening by her new godmother, Priscilla Presley, the American Queen returned to overnight cruise service in April 2012.

In recognition of our successful relaunch of the American Queen, we have since acquired two remarkable vessels, the American Empress and the American Duchess. The American Empress, the largest riverboat west of the Mississippi, has been an outstanding success since she made her debut on the Columbia and Snake Rivers in April 2014. In the summer of 2017, the innovative, 166-guest American Duchess began service following in the pedigree of our line’s namesake, the American Queen, with itineraries on the Mississippi River and her tributaries. She is the first purpose-built, all-suite, boutique paddlewheeler with the largest accommodations in every category on the river. We could not be more excited about this momentous addition to our vessel fleet.

We are proud to continue the tradition of overnight cruising on America’s rivers with our trademark level of service aboard three uniquely American, iconic paddlewheel riverboats. We think you will agree that our friendly all-American crew outdo themselves with gracious hospitality befitting our discerning guests. Join us aboard one of these grand vessels and allow us to connect you with America’s history, geography, music, culture and cuisine.

RACING ON THE RIVER

By any measure, the Ohio River is no mere tributary to the Mississippi, but a mighty river unto itself. On this new itinerary, you will embark on a cruise imbued with the heritage of small town America and the nostalgia of America’s vibrant steamboating history. As you discover the charming attractions of quaint ports that have long been guest favorites, you will have the opportunity to take part in themed racing events such as a 5k run in Augusta and experience the thrill of horse racing at the famed track at Churchill Downs in Louisville. But racing on the river just wouldn’t seem right without the excitement of riverboat racing, so join us onboard as we challenge riverboats, such as the Belle of Louisville, for a good old-fashioned race on the river!

THE LOWER MISSISSIPPI RIVER

The lower stretch of the Mississippi, from carefree New Orleans to vibrant Memphis, is the river of Legends - the river of centuries-old shaded oak trees, elegant antebellum plantations, cobblestone streets and Victorian mansions. Hear the river’s music in rock and roll, blues, jazz and zydeco, and savor its culinary diversity with a host of distinctive Creole and Cajun delights. The world of Mark Twain’s revered book Life on the Mississippi is best experienced from the vantage points of the graceful American Queen and the lavish American Duchess.

Celebrate New Orleans’ unabashed and unapologetic joy in the fine restaurants and sidewalk cafés of the French Quarter, the jazz clubs lining Bourbon Street and the strolling musicians in Jackson Square. Music is also the heart and soul of Memphis – from Elvis’ inspiring Graceland to the blues joints of Beale Street. The city’s National Civil Rights Museum chronicles a long journey to freedom and the Smithsonian’s Memphis Rock ‘n’ Soul Museum records the rise of a beloved musical art form.

Between these glittering cities is a necklace of traditional plantations and homes. Oak Alley transports you back to the era of hoop skirts, cotillions and sugarcane fields. The flowers, fountains and pathways found on Nottoway Plantation are a testament to the Louisiana way of life before the Civil War. Natchez, Mississippi’s captivating historic district shines in the lovingly restored homes of Magnolia Hall, Rosalie Mansion and the William Johnson House.

Thousands of tombstones that mark the fallen in Vicksburg, Mississippi, reflect the tragic sacrifices of the Civil War. French Canadian fur trappers defined Cajun culture in bold Baton Rouge, Louisiana, while the lost settlement of Bayou Sara below the bluffs of St. Francisville, Louisiana, was once the busiest pre-Civil War port between New Orleans and Memphis.

Inhale the sweet fragrance of magnolia blossoms, relax in a rocking chair with a glass of sweet tea and watch the essence of the south unfold around you.

July 7-22 ★ 16-Day Voyage
Memphis to Pittsburgh
Aboard the American Duchess

Voyage Details On Pages 32-33.
The upper reaches of the Mississippi River, from dynamic St. Louis to beautiful Red Wing and St. Paul, are rich with frontier tales of fur traders and pioneers set among picturesque geography and abundant wildlife. As you cruise through history, hidden gems around each bend fuel your sense of discovery as the very best of America’s heartland unfolds before you.

St. Louis was the hub for riverboats traveling along the Mississippi and the jumping-off point for exploration and settlement of the West. Today, that heritage is reflected in the shining stainless steel Gateway Arch that curves above the skyline and in the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial that lies beneath. Upriver, St. Paul was once described by Mark Twain as “a wonderful town…put together in solid blocks of honest brick and stone, and has the air of intending to stay.”

Perhaps no person defined America’s view of its greatest river more than Mark Twain. Tom Sawyer, Huck Finn and Becky Thatcher are alive and well in Hannibal, Missouri, Samuel Clemens’ boyhood home. In Cape Girardeau, an enormous mural immortalizes 275 years of local progress, wars and achievements. Fur trappers, Mormons, lumberjacks and railroad barons built La Crosse, Wisconsin, while in Dubuque, Iowa, looks can be deceiving. What seems like a typical Midwestern city also happens to be one of the oldest European settlements west of the Mississippi River. Davenport, Iowa’s influence is seen in the smokestacks of the American Queen and the American Duchess, which fold down so they can slip under bridges and power lines.

In Wisconsin and Minnesota, wildlife takes center stage both on and above the rolling hills and limestone bluffs that cradle the river on its journey through the region. View an impressive population of bald eagles on an eco cruise from Red Wing or at the National Eagle Center in nearby Wabasha. Let the seasons guide your travels as the fragrant flowerboxes of summer give way to the autumnal colors of fall.

Nowhere is the timelessness of rivers more apparent than here in the pristine Pacific Northwest, a captivating corner of America which displays an abundance of inspiring natural beauty. Our voyages are specifically tailored to maximize daytime river cruising for optimal viewing of spectacular scenery and iconic highlights such as the Columbia River Gorge. As you cruise along the Columbia and Snake Rivers, you will bear witness to the precious land just as it appeared to Lewis and Clark in 1805 – majestic and unimaginably glorious.

Sacajawea, Lewis and Clark’s faithful Native American guide, knew how to read these lands and soon you will also, thanks to the legacy of the expedition that opened the West to settlement. Pioneering reminders range from Fort Clatsop outside Astoria, Oregon, where they survived the harsh winter, to the sister cities of Clarkston, Washington, and Lewiston, Idaho. The explorers overcame the formidable Celilo Falls and currents near The Dalles, Oregon, a struggle brought to light at Rock Fort Campsite. The role of Sacajawea in the expedition’s success is interpreted at the state park in Washington’s Richland (Tri-Cities) Region.

At Multnomah Falls, snowmelt streams plunge over 600 feet in two tiered cascades down a sheer cliff face. Deeper than the Grand Canyon, Idaho’s Hells Canyon is a dramatic crack in the earth with raging waters best explored on an exciting jet boat ride. Near Portland, understand the raw power of nature in the collapsed volcanic crater of Mount St. Helens.

Travel into the heart of Washington’s wine country, where many acclaimed wineries of the Pacific Northwest have made their mark among wine connoisseurs, and sample some of the finest vintages in the midst of breathtaking scenery.

Whether you choose to take in the panorama from Mt. Hood’s Timberline Lodge nestled among the pines or climb the Astoria Column to view the expansive Pacific, a voyage on the Columbia and Snake Rivers will show you the world from a new perspective.
